

HOW TO MAINTAIN YOUR TRACK PROTECTORS

Bench Zone® Sideline Track Protectors and Crossover Zone® Track Protectors

The idea behind Aer-Flo's Cross-Over Zone® and Bench Zone® Sideline Track Protectors is for them to be used prior to an event or game and taken up following said event or game. These products were not designed to be left down for days on end or in inclement weather. Doing so will cause premature breakdown in the life expectancy of the products. With regards to storing after use, the ideal situation would be for the protectors to be dry and stored in a dry environment away from the elements and free of rodents.

The smaller track protectors can be stored in rolling trashcans, preferably with a locking mechanism on the lid so trash is not inadvertently put inside them. Larger protectors can be stored on a trailer if available or off the ground, preferably with a cover over them, keeping them free of dirt and debris. Taking these small steps will allow for a longer life expectancy for your Cross-Over Zone® and Bench Zone® Sideline Track Protectors.
